Maryland's Health Care Decisions Act (HCDA)

 Effective October 1, 1993. Applies in all health care settings and in the community throughout Maryland.

Advance Directives

A written or electronic document or oral directive that:

- 1. Appoints a health care agent, and/or
- 2. States the patient's wishes about medical treatments when the patient no longer has capacity to make decisions (living will).

Only a patient – not an authorized decision maker – can make or revoke an advance directive.

Presumption of Capacity

 A patient is presumed to have capacity to make his or her own health care decisions unless two physicians have certified that the individual lacks capacity or a court has a appointed a guardian of the person.

Physicians Certifications of Incapacity

- The attending physician and a second physician certify in writing that a patient lacks the capacity to make healthcare decisions
- One of the physicians must examine the patient within two hours of making the certification.
- If patient is unconscious or unable to communicate by any means, only one physician certification is needed.

Who is the decision maker if a patient lacks capacity? Authorized Decision Makers:

- 1. Designated healthcare agent(s)
- 2. Surrogate:
 - a. guardian of the person
 - spouse or domestic partner (two individuals in a relationship of mutual interdependence in which each contributes to the maintenance and support of the other, gender is irrelevant)
 - c. adult child
 - d. parent
 - e. adult brother or sister
 - f. friend or other relative: Must have a written affidavit in the medical record

Facts About Surrogates

- All surrogates in a category have the same authority.
- A physician may not withhold or withdraw a lifesustaining procedure if there is disagreement among persons in the same class.

Facts About Surrogates

- All surrogates of equal authority must agree on a decision regarding life-sustaining interventions.
- If surrogates do not agree, refer the issue to the Patient Care Advisory Committee (PCAC). There is immunity for following the PCAC's recommendations.

Withdrawing Life-Sustaining Treatments: If no health care agent is appointed, then a life-sustaining treatment may only be withdrawn when:

- 1. Certification of incapacity by attending physician and second physician, and
- 2. Certification of a qualifying condition by the attending physician and a second physician.
 - or -
- 1. Determination of medical ineffectiveness by two physicians.

Qualifying Conditions

- 1. Terminal condition: Incurable. No recovery despite life-sustaining procedures. Death is imminent, as defined by a physician.
- End-stage condition: An advanced, progressive, and irreversible condition caused by injury, disease, or illness. Severe and permanent deterioration indicated by incompetency and complete physical dependency. Treatment of the irreversible condition would be medically ineffective.
- Persistent vegetative state: No awareness of self or surroundings. Only reflex activity and low level conditioned responses. Wait medically appropriate time for diagnosis. One of the two physicians must be a neurologist, neurosurgeon, or other physician who is an expert in cognitive functioning.

Medical Ineffectiveness

- A medically ineffective treatment is a medical procedure that will not prevent or reduce the deterioration of the patient's health or prevent impending death.
- The patient or authorized decision maker must be informed of the decision.
- The physician must make a reasonable effort to transfer the patient to another physician if the patient or authorized decision maker requests it.
- Pending transfer, the physician must provide the requested treatment if the failure to do so would likely result in the patient's death.
- In an Emergency Room, if only one physician is available, a second physician's certification is not required.
